MEMORIAM:

In loving memory of our dear son and brother, James Thurman Gibson, who departed this life six years ago today, July 17, 1944. A token of love and remembrance of one we shall never forget. His memory to us is a treasure. His loss a life-time regret How much we miss you, you must know. Without these words to tell you so. But we can't let the day go by, without remembering with a sigh. It's the saddest day of all the year, the day death came and took away our darling dear. Since you have gone before us dear, walk slowly down the path of death well worn and wide. For we want to overtake you some day and seek the journey ending by your side. Walk slow, dear, and often look behind you and pause to hear if we should call your name. For death has left a loneliness in our home the world can never fill. —Mother, Dad, Charlie and Billy.

Col. Woodson Gives Tips on Safe Driving

Richmond, Va., July 12.- As tourist travel began to reach its peak and Virginia reeled under a staggering toll of 21 traffic dead for the long Fourth of July week-end, Col. C. W. Woodson, Jr., Superintendent of State Police and Executive Chairman of the Governor's Highway Safety Committe, called upon motorists to observe a few simple precautions which can prevent them from becoming vacation victims.

Comprehensive police experience, he said, shows that holiday motorists can best protect themselves by careful compliance with the following requests:

1. Check your car for mechanical weakness. While it might stand up well under short drives, sustained travel at higher speeds throws an unusual strain upon it and heightens the consequences of a breakdown.

2. Don't overload your car. This can obscure vision, lessen control and make a breakdown more likely. In addition, headlight beams are thrown too high when the rear of a car is heavily loaded and blinded oncoming motorist is a definite hazard.

3. Learn the laws of the state or district you are going to visit and obey them. The fact that you're a tourist doesn't give you immunity.

4. Don't try to cover too much territory by driving too fast or when you're tired. An exhausted or a sleepy driver can be as dangerous as an intoxicated one.

5. Make the kids behave. When they fidget they distract the driver's attention. Shorter legs to your trip is the best way to achieve this.

6. Don't slow down or stop to admire scenery, read signs or consult road maps without pulling off the highway. The driver behind you doesn't know what you're going to do.

7. Don't drink while or before driving.

Col. Woodson asked also that tourists drive defensively and bear in mind that the roads will be crowds with vacationeers trying to get there and back in the shortest possible time and who will not be observing these warnings.

Uncle Sam Says

Graduation days are over and the hopes of those leaving school for the last time are flying high. There is one bit of advice your Uncle Sam wants you graduates to remember, and that is—"the only money you'll ever have is the money you are saving right now. Saving part of each pay-check is the ONLY way to save." And one of the best ways to do it is to buy U. S. Savings Bonds through your company's Payroll Savings Plan. Those Bonds are backed by the full resources of the Government and will return you $4 for every $3 ten years later.

HEALTH HINTS for LIVESTOCK
PREPARED BY AMERICAN FOUNDATION FOR ANIMAL HEALTH

POISONOUS PLANTS THREAT TO STOCK

Poisonous plants cause American livestock raisers many million dollars in both losses and sickness each year.

Trouble of this type is more apt to occur among young animals ...

...ause many livestock losses. ...ed those subjected to poor pasture ...ge of livestock that has been ...ed to new pastureage. ...ny cases collegas supply good ...ures which help owners identify ...ous poisonous plants of their ...s. Or, any veterinarian will give ...ion on a special poison plant ...

Many of the noxious plants such as young cockleburs, jimson weeds, nightshade, larkspur or young hemp contain specific poisons. Another large group of growing forage of the sorghum family such as Sudan or arrow grass and cane may contain prussic acid, especially if frozen, stunted or wilted. Other plants sensitize animals to the rays of sunlight, causing serious skin trouble or swollen heads.

One great danger is that spotty animal losses may be ascribed to poison plants when the true cause is some contagion like blackleg or anthrax. When doubt as to cause exists, skilled consultation should be sought at once.

If a livestock owner suspects that a pasture may contain poisonous forage, he can cut down his risk by allowing one of his least valuable animals to graze there.

If the animal is unaffected after 10 days or two weeks, the pasture probably is safe. But as a double check, the owner should keep close watch on the animals. He should also keep antidotes on hand which he can give as first aid before the veterinarian arrives.
